

Short Summary

A television advertising and marketing company required year-end financial reporting assistance. SolomonEdwards deployed a team that managed the company's year-end close process, ensured all U.S. GAAP compliance, and prepared the year-end financial statements.

We also served as the primary liaison with the company's external auditors and performed industry specific technical accounting research on revenue recognition on the client's behalf.

The overall impact of our work resulted in a new revenue recognition model for intricate contracts. We are an ongoing technical accounting advisor.
